

INTERVIEW PREP CHEAT SHEET

UGC INTERVIEW PREP

Everything to know before the call: what to expect, how to show up, and what to ask.

INSIDE

01. What to expect

02. How to show up

03. Questions they'll ask you

04. Questions to ask them

01 · THE MINDSET

WHAT TO EXPECT

If a brand asks you to hop on a call, you're usually already very close to getting the gig.

NOT ALL CAMPAIGNS INTERVIEW

Some campaigns will set up a quick Zoom or phone call before officially bringing you on. Others will onboard you without ever meeting you. It completely depends on the gig, and neither one says anything about how good you are.

NOT A TYPICAL JOB INTERVIEW

This isn't a formal interview where you have to prove yourself and compete for the position. Treat it like a friendly conversation, not a corporate job interview.

WHAT THE CALL IS REALLY FOR 01.

Meet you

Put a face and a voice to the application, and see how you come across on camera.

02.

Get to know you

Your background, how you communicate, and whether you're a good fit for the product, the audience, and the team.

03.

Set expectations

Walk you through the campaign: the product, the requirements, the pay, and what they'll need from you.

THE ONLY RULE

Don't overthink it. Be friendly, gracious, and professional. They basically just want to make sure you're a normal person.

02 · BEFORE AND DURING THE CALL

HOW TO SHOW UP

Relaxed, prepared, and like yourself.

01. KEEP IT CASUAL

- Wear normal, everyday clothes.
- You don't need to dress for a corporate interview. No button-down, interview blouse, or suit jacket.

03. SET UP YOUR SPACE

- Take the Zoom on your laptop, not your phone, so you come across more professional and prepared.
- Quiet room, light facing you, camera at eye level.
- Test your link and wifi, and join two minutes early.

05. RESEARCH THE COMPANY

- Some brands will explain everything. Look them up anyway.

02. HOW TO ACT

- Friendly, confident, professional, conversational, and like yourself.
- You'll likely be speaking with someone your own age, so there's no need to be nervous. Treat them like a normal human.
- Open with a minute of small talk, like where you're each from or located.

04. NEW TO UGC? THAT'S OKAY

- Never claim experience you don't have.
- Talk about creating personal content, understanding social media, following trends, and knowing what performs on each platform.

- Know what the product does, who it's for, and scroll their socials. Five minutes of research makes a great impression.

AFTER THE CALL

Send a short thank-you message the same day. Thank them for their time and say you're excited about the campaign. One or two sentences is plenty.

03 · WHAT THEY'LL ASK YOU

QUESTIONS THEY'LL ASK YOU

ABOUT YOU

HOW TO ANSWER

- | | | |
|-----|--|--|
| 01. | Where are you from? Where are you located? | Usually the very first question. Treat it as a minute of small talk and ask them the same. |
| 02. | Tell me about yourself. | Keep it to 30 to 60 seconds: who you are, what you create, and why UGC. A quick intro, not a résumé read-out. |
| 03. | What's your background? | Work, school, and life experience all count. If any of it connects to the product, like tech, small business, or finance, mention it. |
| 04. | How long have you been creating content? | Be honest. If you're newer, talk about how long you've been on the platforms and what you've learned about what performs. |
| 05. | Are you a full-time content creator? | It's completely okay if you have another job. Say so, and let them know you dedicate a lot of your time outside of it to content creation. |

HOW THE REST OF THE CALL GOES

The walkthrough

They'll run you through their company and product, then the campaign expectations.

"Does that all make sense? Does that sound good? Any questions?"

The details

Next they'll cover pay, requirements, and expectations, followed by the same check-in.

"How does that sound? Do you have any questions?"

QUESTIONS THEY MAY ASK (PAY AND TIMING)

HOW TO ANSWER

- | | | |
|-----|----------------------|---|
| 06. | What are your rates? | Have your numbers ready before you join, in case they don't have a set rate and ask for yours. You'll answer with confidence and can negotiate if there's room. |
| 07. | When can you start? | They usually want creators right away, but give a real, realistic date. Only commit to one you can post consistently from. |

04 · WHAT YOU SHOULD ASK THEM

QUESTIONS TO ASK THEM

They'll walk you through the campaign, but use the call to ask questions too. Know the expectations before you say yes and sign on.

Asking questions also gives you the information you need to negotiate if the opportunity presents itself. You don't need to ask all of these. Pick the ones they haven't covered, and save pay questions for after they've walked you through the campaign.

THE CAMPAIGN

- How many creators are on the campaign?
- How long has the campaign been running?
- Is this expected to be a long-term campaign?
- Do you know how much longer it's expected to run?
- What are the content expectations and requirements?

CONTENT AND PERFORMANCE

- What styles of videos are creators making?
- Do you provide a content bank?
- Is there an approval process?
- How many creators or videos are currently going viral?
- What types of content are performing best?

NEGOTIATION

- Is there ever room to renegotiate compensation down the road?

PAY STRUCTURE

- What is the payment structure?
- Is every creator on the same payment contract, or does compensation vary?
- Are there any view minimums tied to payment?
- Are there additional commissions or bonuses?

PAYOUTS

- Do I invoice you, or will you track when payments are due?
- How and when are payouts made?
- What payment platform or method do you use?
- Will there be new monthly contracts, or one contract for the whole partnership?

- Are there opportunities to earn more based on performance or longevity?

BEFORE YOU HOP ON

THE FIVE-MINUTE CHECKLIST

Run through this before every call.

- | | |
|---|---|
| ☐ I looked up the company. | I researched for five minutes and know what the product does and who it's for. |
| ☐ My space is set. | On my laptop, in a quiet room, light facing me, camera at eye level, link tested. |
| ☐ I know my intro. | Who I am, my UGC experience, and the value I'll bring to the campaign. |
| ☐ I have my prices ready. | I know my numbers in case I have the opportunity to negotiate. |
| ☐ I have three questions ready. | At least one about the campaign and one about pay. |
| ☐ I'm dressed like me. | Everyday clothes. Nothing formal. |
| ☐ I'm joining two minutes early. | Calm, on time, and ready to talk. |

You're already most of the way there. Show up as yourself, and the rest takes care of itself.
