Hire your UGC VA Specialist

What a virtual assistant can take off your plate, how they can keep new brands coming in, and how to get matched with a certified VA trained by Solae Studio.

Stay the creator, not the assistant

Most UGC creators hit the same wall. The filming is the fun part, but it ends up being the smallest part of the week. Editing, re-cutting, renaming files, answering brand emails, chasing invoices, sending pitches. It all adds up, and it all comes out of your creative time.

A VA (virtual assistant) is someone who works remotely to take those tasks off your plate. A UGC specialist VA goes a step further. They already understand hooks, demo videos, deliverables, usage rights and how brands like to be pitched, so you aren't training them from zero.

The goal is simple: you focus on filming and creative work. Everything around it gets handled.

WHAT A VA CAN TAKE OVER

01 Editing · from raw footage to ready

02 Hook variations · one demo, many versions

03 Batch editing · a week of content at once

04 Admin & organization · the back office, handled

05 Client outreach · more brands, less inbox

From raw footage to ready

You film, upload your clips, and get back polished videos that match the brief. A UGC specialist VA knows what a good UGC edit looks like: fast, native to the platform, and built to keep people watching.

WHAT THEY HANDLE

- Cutting and pacing. Trimming dead air, tightening jump cuts, keeping the energy up from the first second.
- Captions and on-screen text. Clean, readable captions and text overlays styled to the platform.
- B-roll and product shots. Layering in close-ups, demos and lifestyle clips where they strengthen the story.
- Music and sound. Adding trending or licensed audio, balancing voiceover and music levels.
- Formatting for every platform. Exporting the right sizes and lengths for TikTok, Reels, Shorts or paid ads.
- Revisions. Making brand-requested changes so you don't have to reopen the project yourself.

You spend your energy in front of the camera. Your VA spends theirs in the timeline.

Cold outreach, on autopilot

Most creators wait for brands to find them, or only pitch when they have a free afternoon. A UGC specialist VA builds an outreach system and runs it for you, so new brand conversations start every week whether you're filming or not.

BUILDING THE SYSTEM

- Lead lists. Finding brands in your niche that are already running ads and working with creators.
- Pitch templates. Emails and DMs written in your voice, with a personal first line for each brand.
- Automated sequences. Follow-ups that send on a set schedule, so no lead is forgotten.
- A simple tracker. One place to see who was contacted, who replied, and where each deal stands.

RUNNING IT EVERY WEEK

- Sending a steady batch of new pitches with your portfolio attached
- Sorting replies and flagging the brands that are ready to talk
- Sending your rate sheet and booking calls with interested brands
- Refreshing the lead list so the pipeline never runs dry

Outreach that only happens when you have time isn't a system. A VA makes it consistent.

We did the training. You just hire.

Most creators have to choose. Hire one VA who edits and another who handles cold outreach, or hire one and spend months training them to do both.

At Solae Studio, we've already done the hard part. Every one of our VAs is trained in-house to be an all-in-one UGC specialist, covering editing, hook variations, batch work and cold outreach. We match you with one of our own certified VAs, ready to start. All you have to do is pay them.

Hiring on your own

- Search and test candidates yourself
- Usually editing or outreach, not both
- Train them on UGC from scratch

A Solae certified VA

- Matched to you by our team
- Editing and outreach, all in one
- Already trained by Solae Studio
